Self Esteem

For many children, interacting with their peers can be difficult. A child may be shy, have a language delay, or have developmental or social disabilities that make interacting with other children challenging. Throughout a typical day, children engage in all kinds of activities and interactions. Some of these behaviors are likely positive behaviors that we would like the children to do more often. Positive social behaviors can also be non-verbal like giving a “high five”, a hug, handing a toy to another child, or even helping a friend put on a coat.
